

THE LORD IS NOT ON TRIAL HERE TODAY

Directed by Jay Rosenstein
US, 2010, 56 minutes

Saturday, March 17, 2012
7:00 PM, Rice Media Center

Honored Guest Jim McCollum
Free Admission

The Lord Is Not On Trial Here Today is a Peabody and Emmy Award-winning documentary that tells the compelling personal story of the late Vashti McCollum, and how her efforts to protect her ten year-old son, Jim, led to one of the most important and landmark First Amendment cases in U.S. Supreme Court history - the 1948 case that established the separation of church and state in public schools. The film recounts what Vashti McCollum later described as "three years of headlines, headaches, and hatred," and the dramatic legal maneuverings that led to a decision that shocked the nation and made the McCollums a household name. "Beautifully researched" according to the Peabody Awards, perhaps one reviewer described it best: "The Lord Is Not On Trial Here Today (tells) a little-known story of a woman, a court case, and a movement that changed American society forever."

Brought to you by Americans United for Separation of Church and State, the Boniuk Center for Religious Tolerance, and Rice Cinema.

The Boniuk Center for the Study and Advancement of Religious Tolerance at Rice University

LOCATION: The Rice Cinema is in the Rice Media Center, on the south side of the campus, just inside (and to the right of) Entrance No. 8, at the corner of University Blvd. and Stockton St.

PARKING: On-street parking is very limited on campus and surrounding streets. Easiest parking is some 200 yards west (left) after going in at Entrance No. 8. Covered parking is available several blocks further, to the northwest, under McNair Hall (Jesse Jones School of Business). Both accept credit cards; the underground one also cash (See <http://parking.rice.edu/Content.aspx?id=177>). You can find a campus map at www.rice.edu/maps/maps.html